Zodiac Oxygen Companies Selected as Boeing 787 Crew Protection System Supplier

Boeing 787 Flight Deck Supplier Management announced June 23, 2005 that Avox Systems/Intertechnique have been awarded the contract to supply quick-donning EROS crew oxygen masks and stowage boxes on all 787 Dreamliner aircraft.

The equipment will include the latest state-of-the-art MLD20 series Convertible mask with detachable full-face capability, as well as the MXP800 series next generation stowage containers with illuminated faces.

Boeing Supplier Management was quoted as saying the Zodiac oxygen equipment “earned its way” onto the flight deck of the aircraft by a combination of advanced technology and meeting the program cost targets.

This major award represents the successful collaboration of the new Zodiac oxygen products group of companies which includes Avox Systems (which joined the Zodiac group in September of 2004), Intertechnique’s Oxygen and Life Support Division, and IN-Services; collectively recognized as the world leader in aircrew and passenger life support equipment.
